Important: Effective January 1, 2020, the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA) gives California consumers additional privacy rights with respect to certain businesses that collect personal information of California residents. The Act also applies to certain parent companies and subsidiaries of those businesses, and to service providers that process personal information on behalf of those businesses and to whom the personal information is disclosed.

Your Rights

If you're a California consumer, you have the right to request that The Money Source Inc. (TMS) disclose the following for the previous 12-month period:

- The categories of personal information TMS has collected about you.
- The categories of sources from which the personal information is collected.
- The business or commercial purpose for collecting or selling personal information.
- The categories of third parties with whom TMS shares personal information.
- The specific pieces of personal information TMS has collected about you.
- The categories of personal information that TMS sold about you, if any, and the categories of third parties to whom the personal information was sold, if any.
- The categories of personal information that TMS disclosed about you for a business purpose.

Most of this information can be found on our Privacy Policy web page at <https://themoneysource.com/privacy-policy/> which includes a link to both our Federal Privacy Notice and an electronic version of this Notice.

- You also have the right to request TMS delete your personal information, subject to certain exceptions contained in the CCPA.

Do Not Sell My Personal Information

Under the CCPA, a California consumer shall have the right, at any time, to direct a business that sells personal information about the consumer to third parties not to sell the consumer's personal information. This right is referred to as the right to opt out. TMS may sell limited information about its consumers where allowable. This is disclosed in our Federal Privacy Notice, which we sent you at the beginning of our relationship, and which we continue to send you annually. If you'd like to reference it, a copy is always available on our Privacy Policy web page (link provided above).

If you'd like to opt out, you may do so by following the instructions on page 1 of this Notice. To ensure you are fully opted out of any potential sale of information, you'll want to opt out of both the "For joint marketing with other financial companies" and the "For non-affiliates to market to you" categories. To learn more about the CCPA, please visit our Privacy Policy web page.
